Statement

Details of attack on minorities in Bangladesh and steps taken by Government to persuade Bangladesh Government to take appropriate steps

The Government is seriously concerned at the reports of violence, particularly against minorities, in Bangladesh following the general elections in that country on October 1, 2001. A number of incidents have been reported of attacks on the life and property of the minorities, molestation of the women members of their families as also of damage and destruction of puja pandals, temples. According to Bangladesh media, the scale and intensity of the violence were unprecedented. These incidents have created an atmosphere of insecurity and many Bangladeshis are reported to have crossed over to India; given the long and porous border, the exact number is difficult to ascertain. The Government of India would naturally treat all those who have crossed over to India in these circumstances with compassion and understanding.

After the new Government assumed power in Bangladesh on October 10, 2001, the Government of India's serious concern was conveyed at different levels. The High Commissioner of India to Bangladesh raised the issue with the Bangladesh Minister of State for Religious Affairs on October 16, 2001. Shri Brajesh Mishra, Principal Secretary to the Prime Minister, who visited Dhaka as his Special Envoy on October 26-27, 2001, also discussed the matter with the Bangladesh Government.

The Government of Bangladesh have reiterated their commitment to the safety and security of all communities and have stated categorically that firm action would be taken to protect the minorities and to punish the perpetrators of violence against them. The Government of Bangladesh allocated Taka 40 lakhs for Durga Puja celebrations and Ministers were directed to visit their constituencies to restore confidence amongst the minorities. Recently, the Government of Bangladesh have set up a special committee headed by the Principal Secretary to the Prime Minister of Bangladesh to enquire into these attacks.
